General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 9452 to figure your gross income and determine your filing requirement.

Special Situations

There are some special situations that may require you to file a 1999 tax return, even if your gross income is less than the amount shown in the chart in Part II.

Withholding. If you had taxes withheld from a job or your annuity or pension income, and you want to get a refund of the withheld taxes, you will need to file.

Earned Income Credit

1. If you wish to apply for the earned income credit you will need to file.
2. You must file if you received any advance earned income credit payments from your employer. These payments should be shown in box 9 of your W-2 form.

Special taxes

1. You must file if you owe any special tax on a qualified retirement plan (including an individual retirement account (IRA)) or a medical savings account (MSA). You may owe this tax if you:
 - Received an early distribution from a qualified plan,
 - Made excess contributions to your IRA or MSA,
 - Were born before July 1, 1926, and you did not take the minimum required distribution from your qualified retirement plan, or,
 - Received a distribution in excess of $160,000 from a qualified retirement plan.
2. You must file if you owe social security and Medicare tax on tips you did not report to your employer.
3. You must file if you owe uncollected social security and Medicare or RRTA tax on tips you reported to your employer.

4. You must file if you owe alternative minimum tax.

5. You must file if you owe recapture taxes.

Married taxpayer, living apart. If you didn't live with your spouse at the end of 1999 (or on the date your spouse died) and your gross income was at least $2,750, you must file regardless of your age.

Taxable self-employment income. You must file if you had net self-employment income of at least $400.

Church employee income. You must file if you had wages of $108.28 or more from a church or qualified church-controlled organization that is exempt from employer social security or Medicare taxes.

Claimed as a dependent by another person. If someone else can claim you as dependent, you may have to file a tax return even if your own income is much lower than the total gross income amounts in Part II. If your gross income was $2,750 or more, you usually cannot be claimed as a dependent unless you were under age 19 (or a student under age 24).

Specific Instructions

Part I

Complete Part I to figure your gross income for 1999.

Gross income means all income you received in the form of money, goods, property, and services that is not exempt from tax. This includes any gain on the sale of your main home (even if you may exclude or postpone part or all of the gain).

Social security benefits

1. Social security payments are NOT taxable unless one-half of all your net social security benefits plus your adjusted gross income and any tax exempt interest total more than $25,000 if you are single (or married filing separately and you lived apart from your spouse for all of 1999), or $32,000 if married filing a joint return. Enter only the taxable portion of your social security benefits on line 6, Other taxable income.

2. Include one-half of all your net social security benefits in line 6, other taxable income, if you are married filing a separate return and you lived with your spouse any time in 1999.

Part II

Use the table in Part II to determine your filing requirement.

If you turned age 65 on January 1, 2000, you are considered to be age 65 at the end of 1999.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice.

Your use of this worksheet is optional. It is provided to aid you in determining whether you must file a Federal tax return.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103.

The time needed to complete this worksheet will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is 30 minutes.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of this time estimate or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to the Tax Forms Committee, Western Area Distribution Center, Rancho Cordova, CA 95743-0001.
