DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20224

January 13, 2000

Dear Conference Participant:

I welcome you to the first national conference on Internal Revenue Service (IRS) modernization. The IRS, in cooperation with the American Tax Policy Institute (ATPI), American Bar Association (ABA), American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA), National Association of Enrolled Agents (NAEA), and the Tax Executives Institute (TEI), is cosponsoring this event designed to provide taxpayers and tax practitioners with a modernization update. The goal of our conference is to begin a dialogue about the progress we have made and the challenges we face today and in the future.

This binder is your reference guide for the conference, and I trust it will be useful to you well after the conference concludes. It contains important, up-to-date information about all four Operating Divisions – Wage and Investment (W&I), Small Business Self-Employed (SB/SE), Large and Mid-size Business (LMSB), and Tax Exempt/Government Entities (TE/GE). It also provides information about the Functional Divisions, including the Taxpayer Advocate Service, Chief Counsel, Appeals, and Criminal Investigation.

On Day One of the conference, the discussions will focus on cross-cutting issues relevant to a wide range of taxpayers and practitioners. The panelists will include representatives from each of the Operating and Functional Divisions. Panel 1 will describe the most important structural changes of modernization, such as transition issues and geographic distribution of the Operating and Functional Divisions. Panel 2 will address consistency and coordination issues between the Divisions under modernization. Panel 3 will focus on changes to the guidance process, and Panel 4 will address changes to the tax controversy process.

Day Two of the conference will be an opportunity for you to engage in an interactive dialogue with the panelists during the breakout session of your choice. Panelists representing each Operating Division in the new IRS will give brief presentations about their respective Divisions and then provide detailed answers to your questions.

Thank you for joining us in a first glimpse at the new structure of the IRS. I look forward to an informative and productive two days.

Sincerely,

Charles O. Rossotti

The New IRS Stands Up: What the Modernized Tax Agency means to YOU

Introduction

The idea for the Modernization Conference originated at a board meeting of the American Tax Policy Institute (ATPI), a non profit organization devoted to exploration of and education about significant policy and administrative areas in the tax law. The concept was to create a private-public forum in which to examine the significance, complexity and magnitude of the changes the Internal Revenue Service IRS is currently undergoing through the modernization process. ATPI's board recognized the need to provide practitioners and IRS officials an opportunity to discuss "the most important and far-reaching developments in the last 50 years in the tax law" in an open and interactive manner.

Members of ATPI first approached IRS Commissioner Charles Rossotti with this idea. The Commissioner enthusiastically endorsed the conference concept and agreed to become personally engaged in its development. The ATPI then invited the ABA (American Bar Association), AICPA (American Institute of Certified Public Accountants), NAEA (National Association of Enrolled Agents), and TEI (Tax Executives Institute) to become co-sponsors. The result of this private-public partnership is a conference agenda that reflects the interests of the practitioners and addresses their questions about the new IRS.

Throughout the Modernization process, the IRS has engaged the various practitioner groups to better understand the issues and concerns relevant to them and to their members. The IRS has endeavored to address these issues and to incorporate their views where possible while developing a more efficient and responsive tax agency.

The collective efforts of these groups have made "THE NEW IRS STANDS UP: What the Modernized Agency Means for You" a reality. The objective of this one and a half-day conference is to address fundamental questions tax practitioners may have about IRS Modernization, such as What is it? How and when will it be implemented? What will be its effect inside and outside the IRS? And much, much more...

Thank you for attending and enjoy the conference!

Modernization Update

The New IRS Stands UP

Panel 1: Overview

What the Modernized Agency Means for YOU

Since January 1998 and continuing with the enactment of the Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has been working to provide top quality service to taxpayers by helping them understand and meet their tax responsibilities, and by applying the tax law with integrity and fairness.

To accomplish this new mission, the IRS needs to understand and solve problems from the taxpayer's point of view; ensure that managers are more accountable; and implement balanced measures of performance to measure taxpayer and employee satisfaction. To meet these objectives, the new IRS structure will be organized around four major taxpayer segments: wage and investment taxpayers; small businesses and self employed taxpayers; large and mid-sized businesses; and tax exempt and government entities.

Each step we take to modernize America's tax agency brings us closer to our strategic goals: top quality service to each taxpayer, top quality service to all taxpayers and productivity through a quality work environment. Throughout the modernization process, we have always been committed to maintaining and enhancing critical services such as new procedures to ensure taxpayer rights; improved access on the telephone; expanded availability of bilingual assistors over the telephone for Spanish speaking taxpayers; and standardization of operations in the Taxpayer Assistance Centers. These services demonstrate identifiable progress already made toward developing a more taxpayer-friendly organization. Overall, we are aiming to make the modernization transition effort transparent from the taxpayers' perspective to minimize disruption of service.

The new IRS structure will significantly reduce the number of management layers and points of entry from 43 areas to four Operating Divisions, solely dedicated to the specific needs of each taxpayer segment. This new centralized focus will help ensure uniform and consistent practices across geographic lines. This change will be carefully synchronized to ensure a smooth transition to the new structure in late 2000.

The four Operating Divisions will be fully responsible for all of the tax administration needs of specific corresponding taxpayer segments. The Wage and Investment Operating Division will serve approximately 116 million taxpayers, whose taxes are primarily reported by and collected through third parties, such as employers and financial institutions. The Small Business/Self-Employed Operating Division will serve approximately 45 million filers composed of fully or partially self-employed individuals and small businesses. The Large & Mid-size Business Operating Division will serve corporations with assets greater than $5 million. Finally, the Tax Exempt & Government Entities Operating Division will serve three very distinct taxpayer segments: Employee Plans, Exempt Organizations and Government Entities.

Working with our consultants, the IRS first validated this new structure organized around the four Operating Divisions. IRS design teams then developed a detailed blueprint of the new organization, prepared comprehensive implementation plans and built broad ownership for change within the IRS. External feedback from practitioner organizations was solicited and considered throughout this process.

Beginning in January 2000, IRS teams will refine implementation details with the goal of having the modernized four-division structure, including executive leadership and budget authority, in place by October 2000. The new divisions will become fully operational in stages with Tax Exempt and Government Entities already operational since December. Large and Mid-Size Business becomes operational in March 2000, followed by Wage and Investment and Small Business/Self-Employed in the fall of 2000. We have already selected our top management teams for each of the four divisions.

There will be no immediate impact in 2000. This year's filing season will be unaffected. In fact, taxpayers will not see any change in where to file their returns or other processing changes until 2002 at the earliest. The IRS will advise those affected well in advance of any changes in filing requirements. Taxpayer assistance will be available at current sites,

Overview

What the Modernized Agency Means for YOU

practitioner hotlines will continue and field contacts and liaison relationships will be unchanged as the IRS transitions to the new structure.

Once operational, most taxpayers will interact with only one Operating Division; all decisions related to a taxpayer case will be handled within that division by a dedicated IRS management team. All taxpayer records will be available to authorized employees in any Operating Division. The intended result under this new structure is that taxpayers and their representatives will have better access to IRS management and staff who have the necessary training, ability and decision-making authority to resolve issues quickly.

There will be more emphasis on pre-filing services and early resolution of complex issues for each of our Operating Divisions. A greater proportion of IRS resources will be allocated to pre-filing activities, such as education and outreach, and early intervention to help taxpayers comply with the tax laws. Post-filing activities will be geared to problem prevention and a risk-based analysis approach with targeted enforcement activities for the noncompliant.

External liaison activities in the field will continue while a national presence will be maintained and enhanced at IRS Headquarters. To reduce any undue disruptions, changes to the field structure will occur in phases during 2000. Taxpayers and practitioners will continue to work with their current contacts unless the IRS notifies them of a change. In addition, localities will publish directories of local phone numbers and make contact information available on the Digital Daily web site. At the local level, current liaison relationships, such as District liaison groups, will continue and become enhanced. Field Territory Managers in the Taxpayer Education and Communication (TEC) organization will have lead responsibility for managing relationships with practitioners in their territories, including organizing liaison meetings and seeing that systematic issues are addressed.

Three elements are vital to the success of the modernization effort. First, it is essential that all participants in, and observers of, this process acknowledge the realistic time requirements of full implementation. Second, continued resource support is necessary to ensure successful implementation. And third, continued interest and support from key stakeholders are critical and must be sustained. The modernization process is a wide-ranging and long-term endeavor based on a private-public partnership. The IRS is committed to continuing its stewardship of the tax administration function while implementing a more transparent, customer-focused system that will benefit taxpayers, practitioners and businesses well into the future.

Session Objective

This panel will discuss how the Operating Divisions will communicate with one another, coordinate substantive issue positions, and interact with the IRS functional and support divisions.

Moderator and Panelists

Moderator:

Michael E. Mares, Witt, Mares & Company, PLC, Newport News, VA; Immediate Past Chair, Tax Executive Committee, AICPA; Member, IRS Advisory Council

Panelists:

Claudia Hill	EA, Tax Mam, Inc., Cupertino, CA; Chair Government Relations Committee National Association of Enrolled Agents
Bob Wenzel	Deputy Commissioner Operations, Internal Revenue Service
Stuart Brown	Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service

Discussion Points

- The IRS will provide service through a number of contact points, including 400 taxpayer assistance centers; the 1-800 phone number, which will be unchanged and routed to customer service representatives based on subject matter; the new Taxpayer Advocate Service Office; and current Appeals avenues, which are being expanded.
- Once operational, most taxpayers will interact with only one operating division. All decisions related to a taxpayer case will be handled within that division by a dedicated IRS management team. A greater proportion of IRS resources will be allocated to pre-filing activities, such as education and outreach and early intervention to help taxpayers comply with the tax laws. Post filing activities will be geared to problem prevention and risk based analysis with targeted enforcement activities for the intentionally non-compliant.

- The number of major units with responsibility for administering tax decisions with taxpayers will be reduced from 43 districts and service centers to four operating divisions, greatly reducing the likelihood of inconsistency in treatment of taxpayers. In addition, the work of the nine Assistant Commissioners in charge of functional areas in the National Office and regional offices have been combined into three major areas in each operating division: pre-filing, filing and post-filing.
 - Many tax issues do not affect all operating divisions. For example, approximately 80% of the tax code does not apply to taxpayers in the Wage and Investment Division. For those tax issues that overlap the divisions, tax treatment will be coordinated to ensure consistency.
 - All programs in the National Office, including collection and exam programs, have been assigned to a single program responsibility area in one of the operating divisions. This responsibility area will have responsibility for coordination of any program changes with other affected operating divisions. The overall coordination will be overseen by the Deputy Commissioner for Operations.
 - The Chief Counsel technical staff will remain organized around technical tax areas in the National Office in order to ensure consistent legal interpretations in all operating divisions. There will be close coordination among the Chief Counsel components (Division Counsel and the National Office) to ensure correct, uniform interpretations of the internal revenue laws.
 - Nationwide, 100 Territory Managers and Area Managers will assume responsibility for practitioner liaison relationships and resolution of systematic issues in the field.

Session Objective

The panel will address how the modernized IRS Operating Divisions, the Office of the Chief Counsel, and the Department of the Treasury, will identify emerging issues, develop published guidance and maintain consistency and uniformity in tax law interpretations across Divisional lines.

Moderator and Panelists

Moderator:

Kenneth W. Gideon, Wilmer, Cutler, & Pickering, Washington, DC; former Assistant Secretary for Tax Policy, Department of the Treasury

Panelists:

Larry Langdon	Commissioner, Large & Mid Size Business Division, Internal Revenue Service
Stuart Brown	Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service
Judith Dunn	Associate Chief Counsel (Domestic), Internal Revenue Service

Discussion Points

- The IRS and Treasury are committed to greater use both of published guidance and of other pre-filing issue resolution techniques to improve tax administration.
- The published guidance process will have increased participation by the IRS Operating Divisions and a close working partnership among these Operating Divisions, the Office of Chief Counsel, and the Office of Tax Policy.

- The Office of Chief Counsel will continue to provide impartial legal interpretation of the tax law in various forms of case-specific guidance, such as PLRs, TAMs APAs and FSAs. There will be close coordination among the Counsel components (Division Counsel and National Office) to ensure correct, uniform interpretation of the internal revenue laws.
- New pre-filing strategies are being developed by the Operating Divisions, like Large and Mid-Size Business, to address the need for more up-front issue resolution. New processes for pre-filing agreements and pre-filing advice will be pilot tested and announced formally prior to implementation.

Session Objective

This panel will discuss procedural, personnel, and geographic changes to the tax controversy process under Modernization, including a focus on new alternative dispute resolution techniques and changes in litigation. Timetables and transition issues also will be discussed.

Appeals Organization

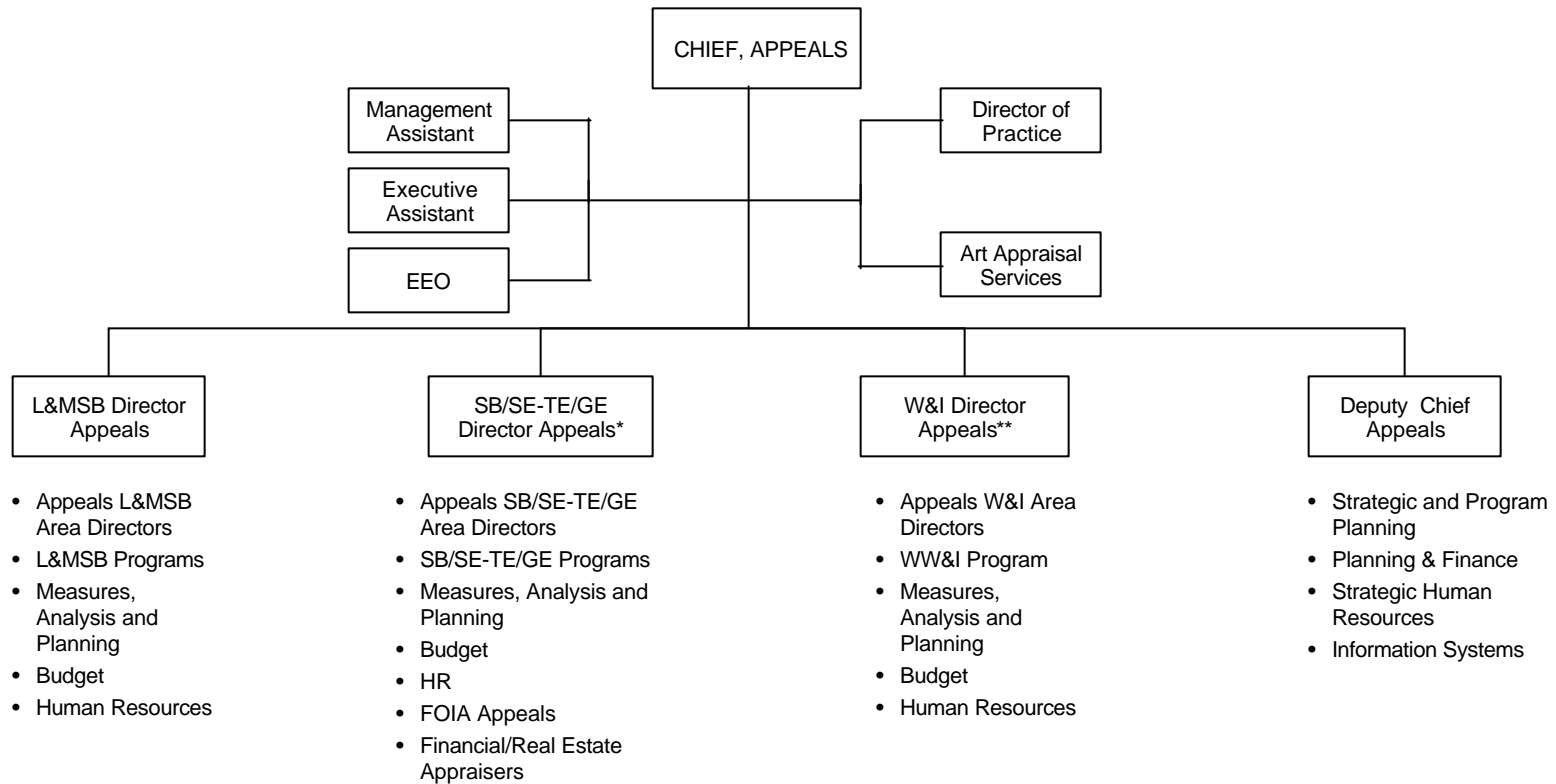

Appeals provides taxpayers with an independent, impartial review of their cases after an audit is completed or collection action is proposed. It is the last opportunity for the IRS and the taxpayer to agree before a case goes to court. Appeals plays a critical role in ensuring that taxpayers have an opportunity to resolve their dispute.

Meet the New IRS Appeals

Keys to the success of the Appeals function include three factors: its independence, impartiality and fairness. Taxpayers will continue to receive high-quality service from the offices that serve them now. To ensure improved customer satisfaction, Appeals will focus on streamlining its processes and offer new services like fast track mediation. A snapshot of the new Appeals reveals:

- An organization with three operating units: Wage & Investment, Small Business/Self-Employed – Tax Exempt/Government Entities, and Large & Mid-Size Business. W&I stand-up is scheduled for 18-24 months after the other units become operational.
- SB/SE—TE/GE activities involve cases covering corporations with less than $5 million in assets, collection issues, estate and gift tax cases, self-employed cases, tax exempt entities, and government entities. This unit will also have responsibility for the current Records and Processing sections. Other program responsibilities include innocent spouse, Freedom of Information Act appeals, excise and employment tax and ADR of bankruptcy, dyed diesel fuel, and tax exempt bond cases.
- LSMB activities cover corporate and partnership cases with assets greater than $5 million with the most complex issues, particularly international issues. It will include such activities as the Industry Specialist Program, supercase ADR, Joint Committee, international issues, and competent authority.
- An empowered workforce of Appeals officers who have redelegated settlement authority on a limited basis.
- A team-based environment for Appeals staff to increase quality and responsiveness.
- New processes to settle taxpayer disputes faster, such as Fast Track Mediation. This new program allows examiners and group managers to present their cases personally to the Appeals Officer and receive immediate feedback on the settlement. In addition, the Appeals Officer is empowered to settle the case and mediate a fair resolution for the taxpayer and the IRS.
- Improved feedback processes with compliance areas to ensure high-quality case development.

FAST TRACK MEDIATION

Beginning early in 2000, Appeals will begin testing fast track mediation in four sites around the country. Fast track mediation is a new process that the IRS will offer taxpayers to assist in resolving tax disputes resulting from an examination, an offer in compromise, or a trust fund recovery penalty.

The benefits include:

Taxpayers	Internal Revenue Service
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• an expedited process	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• no formal unagreed report
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• a neutral mediator	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Compliance participates in resolution
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• a neutral setting	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• case resolved at lowest level
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• no written protest required	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• improved customer relations

How Does Fast Track Mediation Work?

When taxpayers disagree with any or all of the IRS findings in their case, they may request a meeting with the manager of the examiner or revenue officer who issued the findings. Mediation can take place at that meeting or afterwards. To begin the process, both the taxpayer and the IRS manager must sign a simple agreement form. Generally within one week, Appeals will assign a mediator to contact the taxpayer and the IRS manager to schedule a meeting.

What Qualifies for Fast Track Mediation?

Most cases qualify for fast track mediation. In general, a taxpayer may use the process if the case has a proposed tax deficiency of $100,000 or less and is not docketed in any court. An offer in compromise must be less than $50,000 to qualify.

What Is Mediation?

The goal of mediation is to provide an impartial forum for taxpayers and the IRS resolve the dispute. The mediator's role is to facilitate communication by working with the taxpayer and the IRS to obtain the information necessary to understand the nature of the dispute. This includes the issues involved and the positions of both parties.

A resolution agreed to in mediation will not be binding for any taxable years other than those covered by the agreement. The mediator has no authority to require either party to accept any resolution. For any unresolved issues, the taxpayer retains all the usual appeal rights.

Why Another Case Resolution Process?

The IRS believes that an efficient and impartial system of resolving disagreements is essential to enhance the public's confidence in the integrity and fairness of the administration of the tax laws. Part of a restructuring of the Service's administrative appeals process, fast track mediation is aimed at establishing a more timely system for resolving tax controversies.

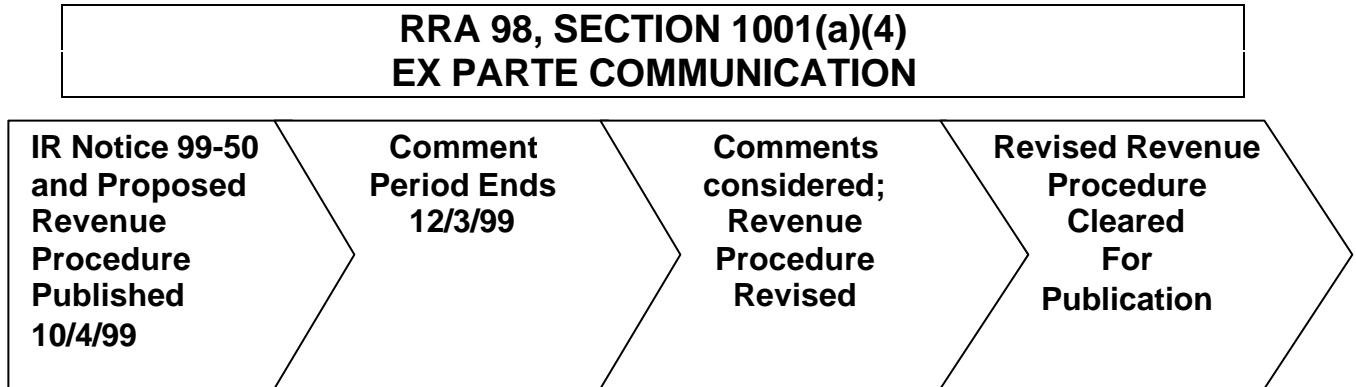

DELEGATION OF SETTLEMENT AUTHORITY

Under the new team concept model, settlement authority will be delegated to appeals officers within certain parameters. Redlegation to the lowest level in the Appeals organization is predicated on adopting a team environment approach. Team managers for an Appeals officer group will be more involved in cases at the pre-decisional level. It is envisioned that they will provide input, perspective, and technical assistance at an early stage in the case consideration process. Appeals officers will be encouraged to interact more with other Appeals Officers on their team to increase consistent treatment of similarly situated taxpayers. In addition, two new case review processes will provide the accountability that ensures case settlement integrity and quality. These processes are the team manager review and a new, centralized closed case review.

Under the Team Manager review, team managers are required to review enough cases of both types, i.e., where settlement authority has been delegated and where it has not, to obtain a sample representative of each Appeals officer's work. They will document unacceptable settlements and use them to determine if an Appeals officer will continue to have delegated settlement authority.

Under the Closed Case review, a separate new Appeals Quality Measurement System (AQMS) will regularly evaluate the quality of a statistically valid sample of closed cases. AQMS reviews will be used to evaluate the overall quality of Appeals settlements and identify areas needing additional managerial attention.

Rollout of the team concept is scheduled to begin with pilots in mid-2000. The staged implementation process should be complete by the end of 2001.

- Section 1001(a)(4) of RRA 98 states that the Commissioner's plan to reorganize the IRS shall...
 - ...ensure an independent appeals function within the Internal Revenue Service, including the prohibition in the plan of ex parte communications between Appeals officers and other Internal Revenue Service employees to the extent that such communications appear to compromise the independence of the Appeals officers.
- In the context of the statute, ex parte communications are communications that take place in the absence of one of the parties -- specifically the taxpayer.
- The proposed revenue procedure takes the approach that the phrase "other Internal Revenue Service Employees" refers to employees of the functions where the work of appeals originates, i.e. Examination, Collection, EP/EO, and International.
- As drafted, the proposed revenue procedure recognizes the responsibility of Chief Counsel's office to serve as legal advisor to the Commissioner and IRS employees. However, Appeals officers are cautioned that they remain responsible for independently evaluating the strengths and weaknesses of issues and making independent judgments concerning the hazards of litigation.
- If communications concerning a case in Appeals jurisdiction involve discussions of the strengths and weaknesses of specific issues or positions or the case as a whole, the taxpayer/representative must be given the opportunity to participate.

Panel 4: Changes to the Tax Controversy Process Under Modernization

- Examples of situations where the taxpayer/representative must be invited to participate:
 - ◆ Communications with the originating function about the strengths and weaknesses of proposed adjustments while the case is under Appeals jurisdiction.
 - ◆ Communications with the originating function about the strengths and weaknesses of possible new issues.
 - ◆ Communications with the originating function about the strengths and weaknesses of issues prior to returning a case for further development.
 - ◆ Pre-Conference meetings on CEP cases.

- Examples of situations where the ex parte communication prohibition does not apply:
 - ◆ Requests to the originating function for general or clarifying information that does not involve the strengths and weaknesses of the proposed adjustments.
 - ◆ Discussions with the Taxpayer Advocate's office on a matter referred to Appeals by that function.
 - ◆ Discussions with Joint Committee -- not IRS employees.

- The proposed revenue procedure was drafted with the objective of implementing the pertinent provision of RRA 98, while, at the same time, striking a balance between taxpayer rights and effective tax administration. It also recognizes that Congress was concerned about the appearance of independence.

Panel 4: Changes to the Tax Controversy Process Under Modernization

APPEALS OF COLLECTION ENFORCEMENT ACTIONS

Before April 1, 1996 the filing of a federal tax lien, levy, or seizure was not appealable.

Starting April 1, 1996, liens, levies and seizures were appealable, before or after the action was taken were appealable in the Collection Appeals Program (CAP). Each lien, each levy and each seizure can be appealed in separate CAP actions.

On January 1, 1997, terminations of installment agreements became appealable by statute (TBOR 2). The Service elected to add this to the CAP program and also made installment agreements appealable before or after the agreement was terminated.

Starting July 22, 1998, denials of installment agreements were also appealable by statute (RRA 98). This right was also added as a CAP appeal.

Starting January 19, 1999, Collection Due Process (CDP) became effective. This allows an appeals "hearing" BEFORE any levy action can occur in a given tax period and AFTER the filing of the first Notice of Federal Tax Lien (NFTL) on a given period. If the taxpayer doesn't agree with the Appeals' determination in a CDP hearing, the taxpayer can take the issue to the Tax Court or a district court, whichever has jurisdiction for the type of tax.

In a CAP appeal Appeals

- Considers any issue raised by the taxpayer (unless specifically precluded).

In a CDP hearing Appeals:

- Verifies that the Service has followed legal and procedural requirements.
- Considers issues raised by the taxpayer.
- Balances the intrusiveness of the lien/levy action versus the government's need for efficient collection of the taxes.

Advantages of CDP

- Right to hearing before any levy action taken.
- Right to go to court.

Advantages of CAP

- Right for appeal BEFORE any lien filed. (In CDP, the right occurs only AFTER the NFTL is filed.)
- Can appeal each and every levy/lien/seizure/installment agreement (CDP limited to one hearing per taxable period.)

effectively resolved the issue. It is critical that all taxpayers have an opportunity to receive independent, objective assistance when resolving problems with the IRS. The National Taxpayer Advocate's annual report to Congress identifies systemic issues that may adversely impact taxpayers, identifies areas of the tax law that impose significant compliance burdens on either taxpayers or the IRS, and proposes solutions for these situations.

In the new IRS, National Taxpayer Advocate Service employees in field offices will no longer report to local IRS management, but will report directly to the National Taxpayer Advocate. This will further guarantee the independence and objectivity of the process. The new National Taxpayer Advocate Service has been designed to focus on specific taxpayer segments and needs. The main objectives of the Taxpayer Advocate are the following:

- Provide objective review and relief in cases characterized by extenuating circumstances.
- Provide a centralized reporting structure for its employees.
- Provide service to all IRS operating divisions.
- Participate, through the Operating Division Taxpayer Advocate (ODTA), in policy and procedure implementation.
- Publicize Advocate education services and benefits to internal and external stakeholders.
- Solicit feedback from taxpayers and key stakeholders.

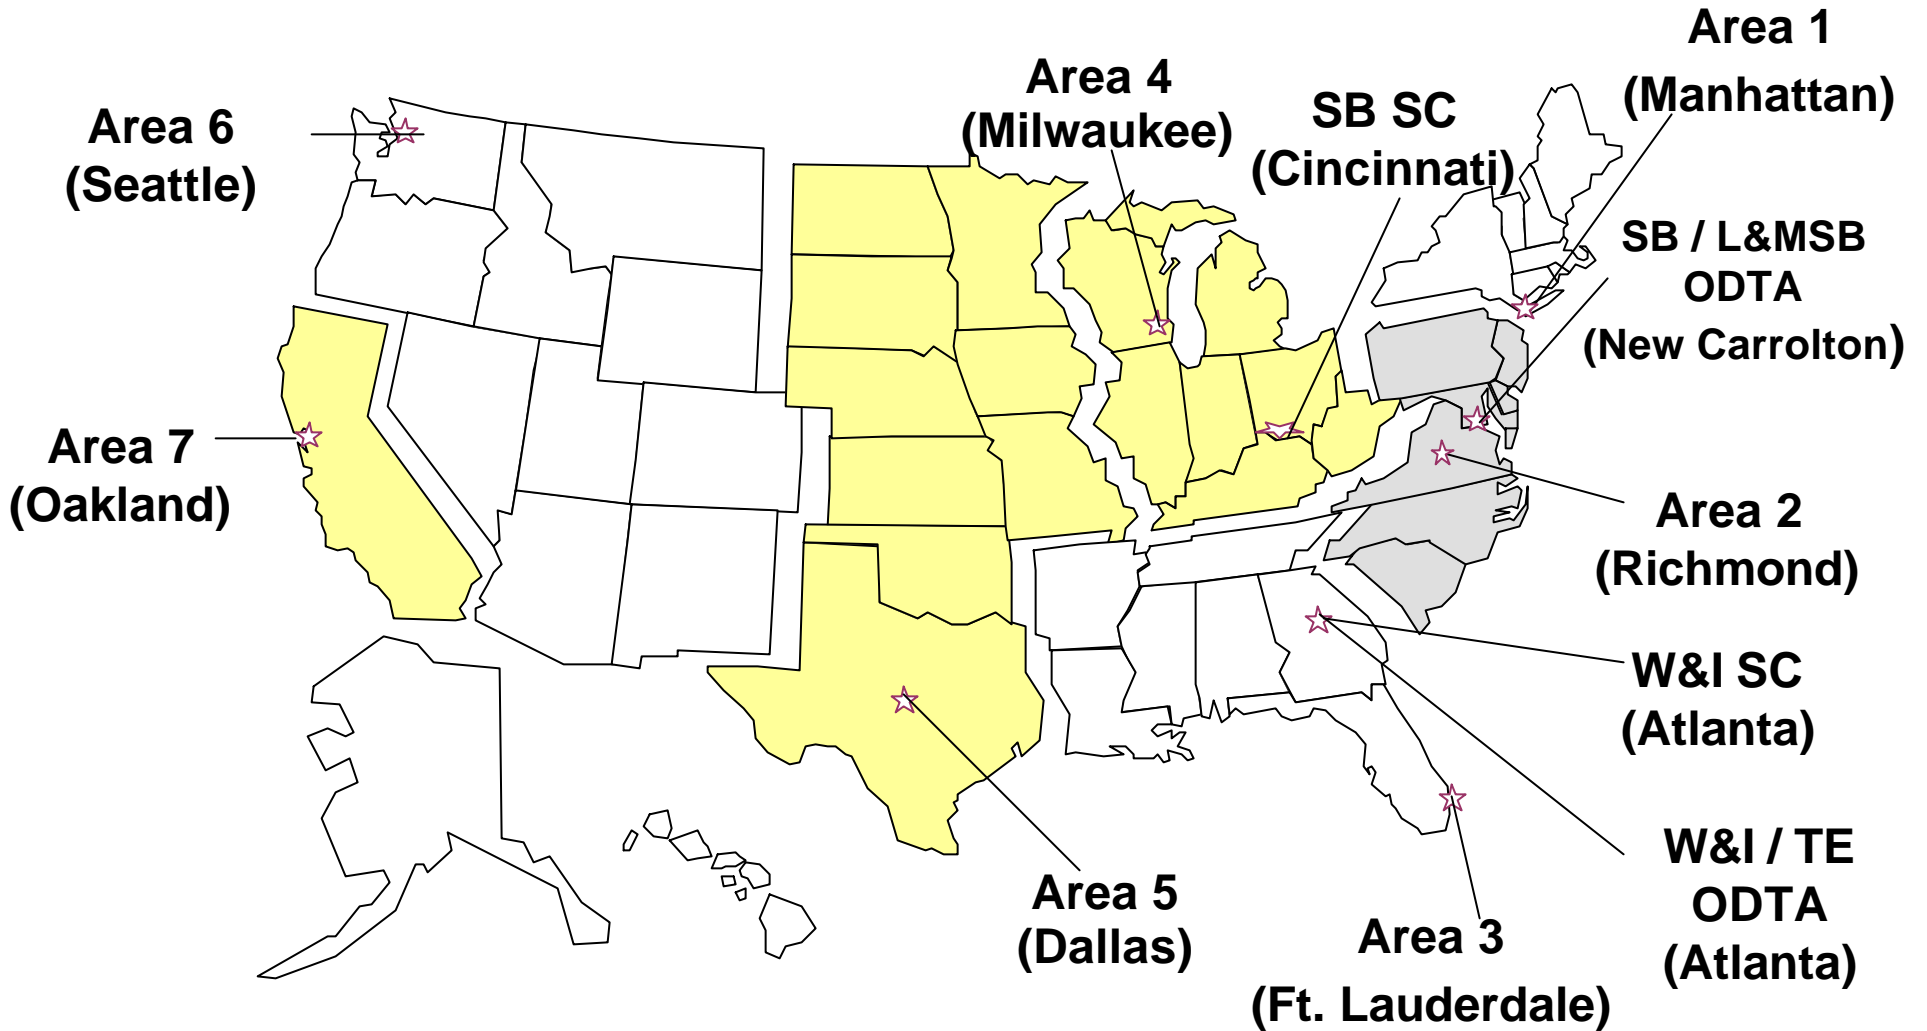

The new National Taxpayer Advocate Service will be organized around two major functions: casework and systemic analysis and advocacy.

- The casework unit will be responsible for resolving all individual and business taxpayer problems that meet Advocate criteria.
- The systemic analysis and advocacy unit will be responsible for working with the operating divisions to identify systemic problems, analyze root causes, implement solutions, and proactively identify potential problems with new systems and procedures.

Each state will have at least one Taxpayer Advocate and a caseworker unit. There will be nine Area Advocates to manage the Local Taxpayer Advocates. This will accomplish the following objectives:

- Allow for easy, one-stop access to local Taxpayer Advocates.
- Will better represent taxpayers' interest in disputes with IRS.

Appeals vs. Taxpayer Advocate How do You Choose?

- Appeals is for:
 - Resolution of substantive tax disputes.
 - If not resolved in Appeals the taxpayer can opt to go to Tax Court.
- TAS is for:
 - Informal problem solving and error resolution.
- TAS will:
 - Consult with Appeals when taxpayers have questions or concerns regarding Appeals, but will not overturn Appeals Officers on substantive tax matters.

Session Objective

IRS will provide a brief overview of the new Wage and Investment Division, profile the market segments, discuss strategic approaches, and taxpayer assistance initiatives. Issues for the payroll community will be discussed, followed by a discussion of the electronic tax administration program. Finally, there will be a discussion of the low-income assistance program.

Moderator and Panelists

Moderator:

Judith Akin, Vice President, National Association of Enrolled Agents, Gaithersburg, MD

Panelists:

Chuck Lacijan	Senior Technical Advisor, The Implementation Group, Inc.
Janet Spragens	Tax Professor, American University, Washington College of Law
John Dalrymple	Commissioner Designee, Wage and Investment Division, Internal Revenue Service
Sherrill Fields	National Director, Diversified Filing Division, Electronic Tax Administration, Internal Revenue Service
John Ressler	Executive Officer for Service Center Operations, Internal Revenue Service

Discussion Points

- The Wage and Investment organization will bring much more focus to servicing the 116 million taxpayers with strictly wage and investment income. This represents 90 million tax returns filed annually and tax revenue collections of $380 billion. The W&I taxpayers are largely compliant.
- There will be much greater focus on pre-filing assistance. We have a brand new unit called CARE. This stands for Communications, Assistance, Research and Education.

- CARE will emphasize strategic research to determine W&I taxpayer needs and focus on development of forms, publications and notices directed to better help the W&I taxpayer fulfill tax obligations.
- CARE will also be devoted to supporting and partnering with stakeholders such as practitioners, software providers, large employers, financial institutions and others who serve the W&I taxpayer. Volunteerism will be a critical part of W&I and we will enhance volunteer programs such as VITA, Tax Counseling for the Elderly and Low-income Tax Clinics. It will emphasize educational programs to provide information and assistance.
- CARE will have a much expanded field organization to carry out programs and services.
- The W&I organization will provide one-on-one assistance to taxpayers who need this type of help at Customer Service Taxpayer Assistance Sites. Offices will be geographically placed in locations following the path most convenient to the W&I taxpayer. Hours of operation will fit the needs of our customers.
- For pre-filing, filing, and post-filing the new Customer Account Services (CAS) organization in W&I will have significant operations to provide telephone, electronic and correspondence options for assistance. IRS will respond to taxpayer tax law, refund and account questions through a variety of means to facilitate compliance and maintain accurate taxpayer accounts. E-filing will be a primary objective to enhance speed and accuracy of filing. There also will be significant paper processing organizations in CAS.
- The W&I compliance organization will be much like the organization we have today with emphasis on matching programs to ensure integrity and fairness to all in applying the tax law.
- In its entirety W&I will have all the resources to focus on our fundamental goal of providing top quality service through an organization that supports end-to-end accountability.

Moderator and Panelists

Moderator:

David A. Lifson, Hays & Co., New York, NY; and Chair, Tax Executive Committee, AICPA

Panelists:

Marianna Dyson Counsel, Tax Department , Weil, Gotshal & Manges LLP

Joe Marchbein Director of Tax Administration, Rubin, Brown, Gornstein & Co., LLP

Joseph Kehoe Commissioner Designee, Small Business/Self Employed Division, Internal Revenue Service

Jerry Songy Executive Director, Modernization Design Internal Revenue Service

Thomas Hull National Director of Specialty Taxes, Internal Revenue Service

Discussion Points

- The Small Business/Self-Employed Division will be organized to serve approximately 45 million individuals and businesses that report business related transactions. These include those individuals who file form 2106 for unreimbursed travel and entertainment expense, Schedule C filers for profit or loss from a business, Schedule F filers who report farm related profits and losses, Schedule E filers who report rents, royalties, and flow-through transactions from investments in businesses, as well as Corporations and Partnerships with assets under $5 million.

- The division will be aligned to serve these customers through three potential interactions:
 - First, the pre-filing phase, where taxpayers need assistance, education, and forms to prepare their return.
 - Secondly, the filing phase, where the taxpayer submits their return for processing, and the Service provides account information, refunds, and assessments to the final tax liability.
 - Lastly, the post-filing phase, which we typically think of as our exam and collection processes that deal with taxpayer compliance.
- Pre-Filing for Small Business-Taxpayer Education and Communication (TEC)
 - TEC's Research and Product Development
 - TEC's Partnership Outreach
 - TEC's Taxpayer Education
- The filing function of SB, known as Customer Account Services (CAS) will focus on both timely processing of the returns, as well as identification of systemic errors by SB taxpayers, so that we can recommend improvements to the filing process. System changes will also be considered for electronic filing of business returns and more real-time information to resolve taxpayer account issues.
- Post-filing for the SB taxpayer, known as Compliance, will see changes as well. While most practitioners will continue to see the examination and collection work continue at the local level, a new management structure will provide a clearer process to resolve disputes in a timely manner. Instead of the layers that exist in today's exam and collection management structure, streamlined cross-functional territory managers will address the end-to-end accountability for determinations that involve exam and collection issues. Improved insolvency processes are envisioned, as well as more consistency across the nation.

- At the SB headquarters, the strategic planning process will be expanded to involve the inputs from practitioners, state/local agencies, appeals, counsel, and the taxpayer advocate. This process will provide the mechanisms for TEC, CAS, and Compliance to change to meet the taxpayers' interests and adapt new policies to provide the levels of service the taxpayers demand.

Modernization Update

The New IRS Stands UP

Meet the New IRS:

Small Business/Self-employed Operating Division

SB/SE At-a-Glance

Mission: To effectively meet the needs of the most diverse group of taxpayers and to help them comply; to help them solve their compliance issues, while ensuring overall fairness to all taxpayers.

Headquarters: New Carrollton, MD

Management Team: Joseph Kehoe, Commissioner

Area HQ Offices: Baltimore, MD; Dallas, TX; Jacksonville, FL; Nashville, TN; Seattle, WA; Boston, MA; Denver, CO; Laguna Niguel, CA; Philadelphia, PA; St. Paul, MN; Chicago, IL; Detroit, MI; Manhattan, NY; San Francisco Bay Area, CA; Washington, DC; International area office in Puerto Rico.

Field Offices throughout the nation

Taxpayer Profile:

- Approximately 45 million taxpayers
- About 33 million full or partially self-employed
- About 7 million small businesses with assets of $5 million or less
- Have some of the most complex issues due to tax law requirements and the number of forms and schedules required.
- Have 4 – 60 routine transactions with the IRS per year

The New IRS
Small Business/Self-employed Operating Division

The SB/SE operating division will serve this taxpayer segment through three organizations:

- Taxpayer Education and Communication (TEC) — TEC is a customer-focused organization that routinely will solicit information from taxpayers and external stakeholders concerning the needs and characteristics of its customers. TEC will implement its programs based on that feedback mechanism and will continuously research and analyze taxpayer trends to ensure that products and services are tailored to meet the needs of SB/SE taxpayers. TEC also will partner with other government agencies, state, and local entities to provide one-stop assistance.
- Customer Account Services (CAS) — this office will assist taxpayers in submitting accurate, timely tax returns and remitting the proper amount of tax. The focus will be on processing returns timely and accurately, assisting taxpayers with account specific questions, and adjusting accounts when necessary.
- Compliance — this office will focus on problem prevention and early intervention to increase overall compliance and fairness by providing educational guidance and outreach programs focusing on small business needs and trends particularly for start-ups. A key element of the new approach is the implementation of a “risk based compliance” system that puts resources on the taxpayers case at the appropriate time.

The Small Business/Self-Employed Operating Division will serve both of the following types of taxpayers:

- Individuals filing Schedules C, E, F, or Form 2106.
- All other businesses with assets under $5 million.

Special situations:

Some businesses may meet the under $5 million asset test for SB/SE yet be more like a large or midsize business in every other way. These businesses may need the technical expertise of an international examiner, engineer, or appraiser. In these situations, the business may be serviced by the Large and Midsize Business Division.

Other businesses may have assets over $5 million yet be more like a small business. These customers may be serviced by the Small Business/Self-Employed Operating Division.

Over time, IRS expects to develop a comprehensive set of criteria to ensure that the servicing of particular businesses reflects the technical merits of the tax return and the best interests of the business taxpayer.

Session Objective

IRS will provide a brief overview of the new Tax Exempt and Government Entities Operating Division, profile the market segments, discuss strategic approaches, and taxpayer assistance initiatives. The three distinct groups of TE/GE taxpayers will be defined and the key categories of TE/GE taxpayer needs will be outlined.

Moderator and Panelists

Moderator:

Susan P. Serota, Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam, & Roberts, New York, NY

Panelists:

Evelyn Petschek	Commissioner, Tax Exempt and Government Entities Division, Internal Revenue Service
Darlene Berthod	Deputy Commissioner, Tax Exempt and Government Entities Division, Internal Revenue Service
Steve Miller	Director, Exempt Organization, Tax Exempt and Government Organizations Division, Internal Revenue Service
Carol Gold	Director, Employee Plans, Tax Exempt and Government Entities Division, Internal Revenue Service
Ed Weiler	Director, Government Entities, Tax Exempt and Government Entities Division, Internal Revenue Service

Discussion Points

- Implementation is a process not an event. While the TE/GE Division became operational in December 1999, TE/GE will be migrating to its new organizational structure and building new capabilities during 2000.
- The TE/GE organization is structured around three primary customer segments: Employee Plans, Exempt Organizations, and Government Entities. The new structure allows for better customer-focused service. Each customer segment is responsible for understanding the needs of its customers.
- Additionally, the organizational structure provides clear lines of authority and responsibility. Whereas the prior Key District structure included 6 separate reporting lines, the new line authority structure is comprised of a single reporting line in each customer segment. The clear lines of authority enhance TE/GE's ability to achieve improved consistency in the application of policies.

Tax Exempt and Government Entities Division High-level Organization Chart

Meet the New IRS

Tax Exempt/Government Entities Operating Division

The Tax Exempt and Government Entities Division was established in late 1999 as part of the Internal Revenue Service's modernization effort. This Division replaces the former Assistant Commissioner (Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations) function, in Washington, DC and around the country, which was established as a result of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974.

The Division is designed to serve the needs of three very distinct customer segments: Employee Plans, Exempt Organizations, and Government Entities. The customers range from small local community organizations and municipalities to major universities, huge pension funds, state governments, Indian tribal governments and complex tax exempt bond deals. These organizations represent a large economic sector with unique needs and are governed by complex, highly specialized provisions of the tax law. For example, in the employee plans and exempt organizations areas, these provisions are not designed to generate revenue, but rather to ensure that the entities fulfill the policy goals that their tax exemption was designed to achieve. Although generally paying no income tax, this sector does pay over $220 billion in employment taxes and income tax withholding and controls approximately $6.7 trillion in assets.

The TE/GE operating division was created to address four basic key customer needs, education and communication, rulings and agreements, examination, and customer account services. Education and communication efforts will focus on helping customers understand their tax responsibilities with outreach programs and activities tailored to their specific needs. Rulings and agreements efforts will provide a strong emphasis on up-front compliance programs, such as the determination, voluntary compliance, and private letter ruling programs. Examination initiatives will identify and address non-compliance, through customized activities within each customer segment, and Customer Account Services will provide taxpayers with efficient tax filings as well as accurate and timely responses to questions and requests for information.

The Commissioner of the Tax Exempt and Government Entities Division is responsible for the uniform interpretation and application of the Federal tax laws on matters pertaining to the Division's customer base. In addition, the Commissioner provides advice and assistance throughout the Service, to the Department of the Treasury, other government agencies, including state governments and Congressional committees, and maintains particularly close liaison with the Department of Labor and the Pension Guaranty Corporation.

The Tax Exempt and Government Entities Division Headquarters is located in Washington, DC. EP and EO field activities are managed through six area offices and GE is centrally managed out of the headquarters office.
