Purpose of Form

Use Schedule B (Form 1120) to provide answers to additional questions for filers of Schedule M-3 (Form 1120), Net Income (Loss) Reconciliation for Corporations With Total Assets of $10 Million or More.

Who Must File

Schedule B (Form 1120) must be filed by all corporations that file a Form 1120, U.S. Corporation Tax Return, and that are required to file Schedule M-3 (Form 1120).

Attach Schedule B (Form 1120) to Form 1120.

Specific Instructions

Question 1. Partnership Allocations

Answer “Yes,” if this corporation is a partner in a partnership and has received special allocations of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit from such partnership.

Example. P, a corporation, joins with B, an individual, in forming the PB Partnership. P and B each contribute $50,000 in cash to PB Partnership. Profits and losses are allocated equally, with the exception of depreciation, which is allocated 99% to P and 1% to B.

P answers “Yes,” to question 1 because its 99% allocation of depreciation deductions from PB Partnership is disproportionate to its ratio of sharing other items of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit from PB partnership.

Question 5. Changes in Accounting Principle

The term “change in accounting principle,” means a change from one generally accepted accounting principle to another generally accepted accounting principle as described in Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No. 154—Accounting Changes and Error Corrections.

Answer “Yes,” if a change in accounting principle occurred during the tax year that affected (or is expected to affect) the amount of income reported for financial statement purposes.

If the corporation has audited financial statements, any changes in accounting principle should be identified in footnotes to those statements.

Question 6. Change in Method of Accounting

Corporations are generally required to file Form 3115, Application for Change in Accounting Method, or a statement in lieu thereof, to request a change in a method of accounting. See the Instructions for Form 3115 for information on requesting a change in accounting method.

Question 7. Voluntary Employees' Beneficiary Association Trusts

Employers that establish and fund welfare benefit plans on behalf of their employees do so through a tax-exempt trust that is referred to as a voluntary employees' beneficiary association (VEBA). See section 501(c)(9) and Regulations sections 1.501(c)(9)-1 through 1.501(c)(9)-8 for details.

Answer “Yes,” if the corporation owned any VEBA trusts that were used to hold funds designated for employee benefits.

Question 8. Mixed-Service Costs

Section 446(a) and Regulation section 1.446(a)(1) generally provide that taxable income shall be computed under the method of accounting on the basis of which the taxpayer regularly computes his income in keeping his books. An exception applies if book income does not clearly reflect income.

Certain utilities are subject to a regulatory method of accounting imposed by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) to determine which expenditures are capitalized or expenses. Answer “Yes,” if the corporation is subject to FERC accounting during the tax year and used an allocation method for mixed-service costs that varied from the FERC method of accounting. Otherwise, answer “No.”
